German immigrants arriving in 1845 settled before organizing the First Lutheran Church in 1858. The congregation worshiped in school houses, but having grown significantly by 1867, the congregation divided each erecting their own church. The larger congregation took the name St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church and built a white framed church. The needs of this growing congregation were met by adding a parsonage, shed and cemetery. The arrival of the twin bells, named Mary and Martha, caused great excitement, as did the pipe organ installation in 1903. The current majestic red brick church was built in 1921 and with the addition of an elevator in 2000, the church building continues to serve our congregation well.
